

RIPE@2022

Conference will take place
on September 18-21, 2022
at ORF and University of Vienna.

Digital technologies have created enormous disruptions for media systems and companies everywhere. With proliferating platforms and declining commitments to social responsibility, more media of more types are motivated solely by commercial imperatives. Societies are struggling with declining trust in news media as a consequence of media deregulation, fake news, disinformation campaigns, filter bubbles and algorithmic production of news. The collapse of editorial responsibility has resulted in declining transparency and accountability. The situation is a grave and urgent threat to a healthy public sphere that is essential for democracy in practice. Trustworthy, accurate, balanced, impartial and non-commercial news services are needed now more than ever - an historic strength and persistent mandate for PSM. Regrettably, growing commercial influence and waning political support increasingly threaten the viability of public service journalism today. RIPE@2022 is addressing these concerns.
